There will be some fair hands, too, that will count out cash to the internal revenue collectors.

It will cost Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Clementina Furniss and Sophia R. Furniss about $10,000 each if the bill goes on the statute books, and if Mrs. Hetty Green doesn't succeed in dodging the collector it is estimated that she will have to part with $40,000.

succeed in dodging the collector it is estimated that she will have to part with $40,000.

The feelings of the millionaires who are to be 'axed, if Mr. Cleveland says so, may be partially alleviated by the fact that the net earnings of corporations are to be taxed before being paid out in dividends, so very few rich men will be obliged to give over the entire amount of their tax in a lump sum. Like men who buy their clgars singly instead of by the box, because it doesn't seem to cost so much, they may thus be kept from believing themselves on the verge of bankruptcy when the Tax Collector comes around just before the Fourth of July.

The income tax is not a law yet, however, and as it may be interesting to know of some of those whose thoughts are probably concentrated on the single hope that President Cleveland will veto the bill, a list of New York and Brooklyn millionaires is appended. In the estimation of the income tax, no account is taken of the $4,000 exemption.

What at first mystified the policeman was the presence in several parts of the room of trais and plots of olood. This was presently explained by the discovery of an open rasor in the bowl of the stationary washstand in a far corner of the room.

It would seem that Mr. Snyder had cut his throat at the basin and mad managed to stagger back to the bed and lie down, as though for sieep.

There is no possible way of determining at what hour Mr. Snyder committed the act, and the hotel people are exceedingly reticent in the matter. It is said that Mr. Snyder had a brother in the hotel, but he could not be found.

Foliceman Sneehan looked carefully over the room for any message which the dead man might have left to indicate his motive, but none was found.

Mr. Snyder was in receipt of a comfortable income from the trade journal with which he was connected. He was of a mild temperament, very courteous in his demeanor to all, and was quite popular among his acquaintances.

It is said that he was given to occasional excesses of drink, and at such times brooded deeply over the death of his wife and the consequent breaking up of his home a few years ago.

Mr. Snyder had three grown children, said to be living in Philadelphia. He had lived for the past three years at the Broadway Central.

The fittings of his room show his attachment for memories of his domestic life. The walls were hung with pictures of his wife and children, and there were everywhere little ornamental souvenirs saved from his broken home.

H. D. Levino, the acting manager of The Dry-Goods Economist, sald that Mr. Snyder had not been at the office for several days, but as he chose his own time of ceming and going nothing was Early this morning Griffin had his attention called to Hope by a crowd of people standing around him at the corner of Seventy-first and Western Houlevard. On making inquiries he learned that they had prevented Hope from committing suicide.

Hope would not speak, but looked sad. Griffin placed him on a car to take him to court. The car had proceeded but a short distance when Hope suidenly broke away from Griffin and dove head first from the platform. Griffin recaptured him after a short chase.

MUST SUE FOR BACK PAY.

His Name on Brooklyn's Pay-Roll. Brooklyn's Inspector of Streets, Peter C. Lynch, must sue for $200 back pay in the regular way if he desires to recover the amount he alleges is due him from the City Works Department. Such is the ruling made by Justice Bartlett in a decision handed down in the Supreme Court. Brooklyn, this morning.

Lynch became connected with the City Works Department in October, 1892, as an inspector of streets at a salary of $100 per month. Shortly after Commissioner Alfred T. White took charge of the Department, Feb. 1 last, Lynch was asked to fill out a blank resignation. Lynch says he did so under pressure. April 21 the resignation was accepted. Lynch was suspended until June 22, when, after a hard struggle, he was reinstated by Commissioner White Lynch says he asked Commissioner White Lynch says he asked Commissioner White to put his mame on the pay-tolls, so that he could get his back pay. Commissioner White refused to do this.

Lynch then brought mandamus proceedings to compel him to do it. The application for a writ has been denied by Justice Bartlett. the regular way if he desires to recover application for a w by Justice Bartlett.

The rush to withdraw goods has begun. We have in this district, which includes New York, Jersey City and Brooklyn, about 125 bonded warenouses and any number of free warehouses, the latter being generally used for the storage of sugar. In the bonded warenouses to-day there are a million and a half packages of goods of all descriptions.

"On the 1st of July the records showed that we had in bonded warehouses 709,150 proof gallons of whiskey. Yesterday the amount of duty paid into the cashier's office on whiskey withdrawais alone was $168,000, the largest amount of duty. I believe, ever received here in one day for withdrawais of whiskey. "Then there is a great quantity of tobacco in storage, but as the new Tariff bill is more favorable to tobacco in the way of duty than the present one, I imagine that the owners will let all they can remain in bond until the new law goes into effect."

From another source it was learned that, as near as can be estimated, the Government would receive in duty shout $30,000,000 if all the goods now in bonded warehouses at this port were withdrawn under the present Tariff law.

Hegarding the various reports about the great amount of sugar stored here, a prominent sugar importer and broker who was at the Custom-House this morning, said that the truth of the matter is that there is not as much raw sugar at this port to-day as has been stored here at times past.

"A crop is only a crop," said he, "and high tariff or none at all, there will still be the year's crop of sugar, no more, no less. The yearly production about equals the consumption, and there is but little left over."

The customs officials anticipate a heavy withdrawal of all goods now in "On the 1st of July the records showed the consumption, and there is but little left over."

The customs officials anticipate a heavy withdrawal of all goods now in bonded warehouses on which the new tariff increases the duty, but they also expect sheavy and immediate importations in the same line. It is thought that merchandise now in bond on which the duty will be lowered by the new measure will be allowed to remain there to benefit by the reduction in duty.

There will be heavy withdrawals of champagnes and wines of all kinds, the customs officers say, but as yet the business has not begun to any great extent. This morning the Appraiser's office and the Custom-House was filled with brokers and representatives of big dry-goods importing houses, arranging for the taking out of goods from bond. The brokers are happy, for they see plenty of business and money to be made after many, many months of duit times.

Young Hull was arrested in Baltimore

Young Hull was arrested in Baitimore yesterday by Central Office Detectives McCafferty and Price as he was about to board the steamship Weimar, en route to Germany. Until six months ago he worked for his uncle.

On July 19 Hull's grocery store was burglarized, entrance being effected through a rear window. The safe was opened, evidently by some one who was acquainted with the combination, as no force had been used. Twenty-five dollars was taken. On Aug. 6 the house was entered, the safe again opened, and another sum of money and Hull's bankbook on the Bleecker Street Bank were stolen.

The next morning the burglar went to the bank and forged a check for $25, all the money Hull had en deposit, which was cashed. Then Hull notified inspector McLaughlin, and Headquarters detectives were placed upon the case. They at once suspected young Hull, but could not find any trace of him, until the recently wrote to his uncle from Baltimore, saying that he intended to go back to Germany. The detectives went there and arrested him.

Young Hull admits the forgery, but denies the burglary. In court this morning he was held for trial.

Notwithstanding the fact that only very few even of the bride's nearest kin were present at the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father F. The novel idea of hunting a ghost on bleycles originated with A. D. Mapledoram, of 170 Montague street, Brooklyn, who is alleged to have seen the midnight apparition while on his way from Coney Island.

The bold knights will number eight men, led by Mr. Mapledoram, and mostly picked from Company K, of the Thirteenth Regiment.

The men are First-Sergt, Case, Quartermaster-Sergt, A. L. Conklin, Sergt. Frank Case, Corpl. A. Boden, Corpl. J. W. Westerfield, A. N. Davis and John Myers, proprietor of the Sea Beach Palace, at Coney Island.

The wheelmen will meet at Mr. Myers's hotel, at Coney Island, about o'clock, and then ride to Mapleton, where they will wait for the appearance of the aerial wanderer.

Mr. Mapledoram says that if the ghost shows itself above ground the wheelmen will surely run it down. The men have been picked from the Thirteenth Regiment because of their nerve, and each one is anxious to interview the spook. They are afraid of nothing, and say that not even the appearance of his Satanie majesty can prevent the hunt.

ANNOYED BY DETECTIVES.

leged Fictitious Complaints. Mrs. Greenburg. who lives with her nusband and four children at 170 Forsyth street, has recently been annoyed by detectives, who have searched her rooms upon the authority of complaints re-upon the authority of complaints received at the police station and at the Board of Health.

On Saturday a call was received from a police officer, who investigated a complaint that Mrs. Greenburg maintained a disorderly house. Again, on Monday, an officer from the Board of Health searched the apartments for an alleged case of infectious disease.

Mrs. Greenburg alleges that the complaints emanate from a tenant in the house who has been ordered out as a nuisance. She has invoked police protection.
